Date adopted
by the Board

1. Introduction

1.1 Continuous disclosure

As a publicly listed company, the Company has obligations under the Corporations Act and the ASX Listing Rules to keep the market fully informed of all information which may have, or could reasonably be expected to have, a material effect on the price or value of its securities.

The ASX Listing Rules contain provisions requiring the continuous disclosure of information to keep the market informed of events and developments as they occur.

ASX Listing Rule 3.1 provides that once the Company becomes aware of any information concerning it that a reasonable person would expect to have a material effect on the price or value of the Company's securities, the Company must immediately disclose that information to the ASX.

Further, ASX Listing Rule 15.7 requires that an entity not release information that is intended for release to the market to any person until it has given the information to the ASX, and has received an acknowledgement that ASX has released the information to the market.

The Company is committed to complying with the continuous disclosure obligations contained in the ASX Listing Rules and the Corporations Act.

1.2 Shareholder Communications

The Company acknowledges the importance of effective communication with its shareholders and market participants. The Board recognises its duty to ensure that its shareholders are informed of all material developments affecting the Company's operations and affairs.

- (b) providing shareholders with ready access to balanced and understandable information about the Company and its corporate proposals; and

The Company will also give shareholders the option to receive communications from, and send communications to, the Company and its share registry electronically.

Pursuant to its statutory obligations and the ASX listing requirements (particularly ASX Listing Rule 3.1), the Company must immediately (that is 'promptly and without delay') disclose all information concerning it, of which it is or becomes aware, that a reasonable person would expect to have a material effect on the price or value of its securities.

Relevant considerations include matters of fact, opinion, and intention, and need not be measurable in financial terms. The effect on the share price can be positive or negative.

The Managing Director, in consultation with the Chair, has responsibility for determining whether a particular piece of information is material or falls within the exception, otherwise the information should be provided to the ASX for a determination.

Where this is not practicable, the Company will make available on its website a recording or transcript of the meeting as soon as practicable.

The Company will use general meetings as a tool to communicate effectively with shareholders. Shareholders will have a reasonable opportunity to ask questions of the Board both before and during the meeting, and otherwise to participate in the meeting. The external auditor of the Company will be asked to attend each Annual General Meeting and to be available to answer shareholder questions about the conduct of the audit and the preparation and content of the auditor's report.

Important issues requiring shareholder approval are to be put to the shareholders for their approval and decided by poll rather than by a show of hands. The shareholders are also responsible for voting on the appointment of Directors. All substantive resolutions (that is, resolutions that are not procedural resolutions) will be conducted by a poll.

The Chair will approve all press releases referring to material issues prior to release.

The Company will provide private briefings to analysts, institutions and stockbrokers to enhance their understanding of the Company. These private briefings must not involve the disclosure of price-sensitive information. Such disclosure would constitute selective disclosure. If any new information is provided in the presentation, a copy must be lodged with the ASX prior to that meeting.

If an analyst asks a question at a private briefing which touches on a price-sensitive area, then the Company's spokesperson can only use publicly available information in the answer. Where this is not possible, the Company's spokesperson should decline to answer the question or take it on notice and answer it after a general disclosure to the ASX has been made. If price-sensitive information is inadvertently disclosed at a private briefing, then the information must be announced to the ASX as soon as practicable.
